PAID FOR HIS OFFICIOUSNESS

Display of a "Little, Brief Authority"
Cost the Good Citizen Just One
Five-Dollar Bill.

A few days ago an officious gentleman, who is a member of one of the pestiferous property owners' associations over in Queens, was walking by a home near where he lives when he heard sounds of a domestic quarrel within. "Officer," he exclaimed excitedly, when he found a uniformed representative of the law, "enter at once and stop that disturbance. This is a respectable neighborhood." "I have no power to enter a home," said the officer. "You'll have to get a warrant or a summons." "Nothing of the kind," exclaimed the irate citizen, swelling with importance. "I order you to stop that trouble. I guess you don't know who I am. I am the vice-chairman of the Property Owners' association. You'll stop that trouble or I'll report you." Still the policeman was not impressed and the citizen plucked out a notebook and proceeded to take down the cop's number. "Now, if you're finished," said the policeman, "I'll do a little writing myself. Here is a summons for you to appear in court for having with you a dog that is unleashed, unmuzzled and unlicensed." It cost the good citizen just $5 when he got before the judge.—New York Correspondence Pittsburgh Dispatch.

POSTAGE STAMPS IN HISTORY

Scraps That Seem Amusing Entertained by Royalties Whose Pictures Were Used.

The English post office announcement invalidating all the stamps issued in Queen Victoria's reign affected a considerable number of varieties. From a table published not long ago in L'Echo de la Timbrologie, the French philatelic journal, it appears that no fewer than 3,133 different Victorian stamp portraits had been issued up to the end of 1909. King Edward figures upon 1,080 different stamps. Outside the ranks of royalty Bolivar tops the list with 213 stamps, or nearly twice as many as Columbus, who has been represented 119 times.

When postage stamps first came into use, some people urged that the effigy of majesty is too sacred to serve as a label for letters, the Manchester Guardian observes. "Have you seen the stamps yet?" wrote one ardent loyalist in 1840. "This is the greatest insult offered the queen." King Ferdinand of Sicily had a special postmark manufactured in the shape of a frame, so that stamps could be obliterated without his portrait being struck by the postal officials. The smaller the monarch the more he has to worry about his majesty.

Harvest Every Month.

All through the year wheat is being harvested. In January it is cut in the great fields of the Argentine and in New Zealand. In February and March it is cut in the East Indies and Egypt. The wheat fields are harvested in April in Cyprus, Asia Minor, Persia and Cuba, and in May in China and Japan. June is the busiest harvest month of the whole year, for then Turkey, Greece, Spain and southern France, as well as most of the southern states of America are all cutting wheat.

The more northerly states of America, as well as Austria, Germany and parts of Russia do their harvest gathering in July.

August sees the wheat crop gathered in Great Britain, and September and October for Sweden and Norway. Peru and South Africa are busy harvesting in November and December.

Facts as to Sleep.

A recent investigation into the characteristics of sleep quoted by Professor Jastrow of England reveals a striking division of sleep conditions between the sexes. At the same time it shows that people, as a whole, vary little from the average, and that most people sleep in about the same way. People who are troubled sleepers really get as much sleep, but they do so more jerkily.

The first quarter of a night's sleep possesses more rest than all the remaining three-quarters put together. This gives a scientific reason for the old proverb, "An hour's sleep before midnight is worth two hours after." Not that midnight has anything to do with it, but that the worth of sleep lies in the first part of it, and in early times nearly every one was in bed a couple hours before midnight.

Children Teach Rook How to Talk.

It is said that the first instance of a rook developing the power of talk was recorded in England recently. The bird is the property of two school-children—a little boy and girl living in Horeham, England. They caught it live years ago, when it was still quite young, in a local rookery. By patient precept and careful study they taught the bird several words and now she proudly boasts of a vocabulary close upon one hundred simple words. She is often allowed out in the garden, for, although she can fly swiftly and strongly, she can be trusted not to make her escape.

Budding Monopolist.

"That youngster of mine is going to get into trouble with the federal government some day," remarked the proud father. "Surely not." "I wouldn't be at all surprised. By sock or crook he's managed to acquire about half the toy trains in our block."

TERRELL BROS. ALL FIXED UP IN NEW QUARTERS

"We are now fixed to get the trade and to take care of any and all kinds of business which comes our way," said Terrell Brothers this morning.

And a glance at their new store, 236 Chickasha avenue, will convince you that Terrell Brothers know whereof they speak.

With attractive exterior to catch and hold the attention of the prospective customer, the interior of the store bears out all expectations which one may have after giving the front of the building the "once over."

A new modern awning projects over the show windows which flank each side of the entrance to Terrell Brothers, and gives an air of "hominess" to the store. This awning is fitted, under its outer edges with incandescents which light up and show to advantage the display windows with their artistically arranged shows of gentlemen's furnishings goods, hats, suits and novelties. The floor leading into the entrance proper is artistically tiled, while a whirling electric fan will cool the atmosphere at the entrance during the hot summer season.

Upon entering the salesroom of Terrell Brothers the eye is at once attracted and held by the systematic manner in which the goods are shown to the best possible advantage. Flanking the walls and the shelves, crowded with haberdashery, shoes and other merchandise, rank after rank of floor cases appear, each case filled to overflowing with the lighter goods which appeal to the tastes of the artistic dresser. Along the left hand side of the building the customers' attention will be called to the cases of different kinds which hold and render immune from dust damage the suits and hats and boys clothing carried in stock. The suit cases are of the latest design, of the revolving pattern, so arranged that in a moment's time every suit in stock may be brought within the purchasers' grasp. The same may be said of the hat case.

Back of the suit and hat cases will be found the cases containing the children's clothing and men's separate trousseaus. These cases are also of the latest designs and are, like the suit and hat cases in the front of the store, absolutely dust and dirt proof.

In the rear of the store will be found over an $8,000 stock of shoes.

Upon the balcony which crosses the rear of the building, Terrell Brothers have displayed the new lines they are handling this season, including wood, leather and fiber trunks and the latest assortments of traveling bags and Gladstones.

Just tell the general public to drop in and see us. We are here to please and it is a pleasure to show goods, was the closing remark of Terrell Brothers, all of them.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Chickasha Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make and kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Chickasha readers.

Fred Andrews, Chickasha, says: "My back was weak and I had spells of aching across my kidneys. My kidneys didn't act normally and annoyed me. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

A Lasting Cure.

Over three years later, Mr. Andrews said: "The cure I received from Doan's Kidney Pills has been permanent."

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE FOR SALE MONDAY

Col. E. J. Hubbard, auctioneer, and Arthur Ermland, clerk, report the last first Monday sale in Chickasha a success. Mr. Ermland stated this morning that all things considered the sale ran well above the average. The roads were in bad condition, Mr. Ermland stated, which might have kept the crowds away, but said that disagreeable feature did not seem to affect the sale at all. Mr. Ermland stated further that the crowd assembled

No Time Like the Present

Very few men expect to work all their lives. Some day they hope to lay aside the cares of business and in peace and comfort enjoy the fruits of their labors.

If they are not building NOW for that future many of those dreams will be shattered and the struggle will THEN be harder, for old age and its burdens will be on them.

The present is the time to make sure of the future, and the extent of your old age comforts will be in proportion to your efforts now. Lay a foundation for the dreams of tomorrow by starting a bank account today with us.
